

Daniel Chavez

Jake Gizzard works at Walmart. He just got paid yesterday and he doesn't plan on saving his money because mom and dad take care of him. He cares about looking good for the ladies but doesn't have a slightest clue about how he should dress to impress.

Jake hears about the fashion finder app from a co-worker at Walmart who never shows up in uniform but looks good nevertheless. Jake calls this type of fashion "drip."

Jake installs the app and allows the app to connect to his bank account. He gets different clothing options from all of the top brand clothing companies! Jake sees what he likes but wonders what these clothes would look like on him.

Thankfully, Fashion finder has a mode where you can place the clothes you want on a virtual avatar to get a picture of what you would look like wearing the clothes.

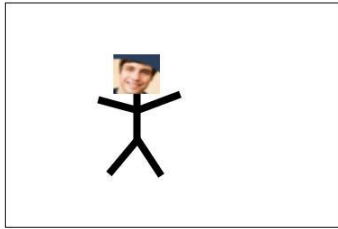

Jake buys his clothes and he gets them through the mail. He goes to a party that very night. He meets this lady who thinks he looks stylish and wants his number... SUCCESS! He is also reunited with his highschool bully who walks away nervously after looking at Jake... ALPHA MALE STATUS

Jake is really glad he found fashion finder because now he can boost his self esteem and find something to spend his hard earned money on! Kudos to you Jake!

Scott Do

Jim Benson, a university student in some university at Somewhere (Somewhere seeming to be a white void of nothing) currently is not content with the apps he is using to search for clothing. More specifically he wants an app that would assist him in finding professional attire.

The current apps he has do not seem to satisfy him - he notices that he buys a lot more clothing than he would normally need, and he needs an app that would assist him in making outfits from the clothing he has.

That's when he discovered an app, Fashion Finder, while browsing some app store in his free time.

Jim Benson can use the Fashion Finder app to search for suggested outfits he can use from what clothing he has, look for outfits he has already made, or search for or make new outfits.

If he desires to buy a new outfit, he can buy it on the Fashion Finder app, and test on his new outfit - when the package arrives. (Don't think too much on how Mr. Benson has a autumn-looking house in the white emptiness)

Now Mr. Benson can buy outfits that can suit him for any need. (Also don't think too much about how Benson swapped from a stick figure to a man)

EMMALEE

Lizzy and her friends all downloaded tiktok and instagram at the illegal age of 12. They rarely went on the apps for the next 2 years because their parents would have flipped.

They all get hooked on posting and following their favorite influencers and celebrities after they turn 13.

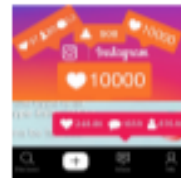

They all turned 14 and wished they could dress like their idols, but they all did not have the means to buy all of the expensive clothes.

Lizzy was scrolling through tiktok and instagram for the next few weeks and saw an ad for an app called "Fashion Finder". She told her friends about it, and they all downloaded it.

They all soon found out that they had more outfit combinations and trend starting clothes in their closets with the help of the app "Fashion Finder".

They all soon gained thousands of followers for their ingenious outfits, and they became the talk of their school. Lizzy completely blew Jessica out of the water.

John Boehler

Clark is on his way to work today. He doesn't know what to wear, so he asks his son what outfit he should put on. When he gets to work, his co-workers are giving him funny looks and Clark starts to feel embarrassed. He needs a better way of picking out his clothes.

Clark doesn't want to spend money on any new clothes, so he needs a new strategy for picking out clothes. He has a wide variety in his closet, but he doesn't know how to put the clothes together to make the optimal fit.

Clark's son tells him about this new app called Fashion Finder, to which you manually enter all the clothes you have in your wardrobe into the app and it mixes and matches the best possible outfits for the event your attending.

Clark downloads the app, and enters every single piece of clothing he owns into the app. He checks off the box, "Office worker" and the app generates a fit for him to wear to work today.

Clark walks in to work, and everyone is staring at him. But this time, they're not laughing. They are all admiring how good he looks and asked him how he came up with such a good outfit. He is so happy because he didn't have to buy any new clothes and Fashion Finder made the best outfits for him.

Clark continues to use Fashion Finder for other occasions, such as the gym or going out to dinner with his family. He tells everyone about the app because it can save you time and money and give you the best possible outfits you couldn't even imagine.

Martin Luisa

Sean is a senior in high school, he is tired of seeing other people around him dressing better than him.

Sean looks online for nice clothes but realizes the prices for most of new hottest clothes are extremely expensive.

Sean scrolls through Tik Tok later that day and sees videos on influencers claiming a new app called "Fashion Finder" helps them dress better for less.

Sean downloads Fashion Finder and realizes how cool it is. You can input what clothes you like and it will show you similar clothes to buy, but for less of a price.

Sean orders some new clothes from the Fashion Finder app. He is glad he saved money instead of buying expensive mainstream clothes. He waits for his order to arrive.

Sean's clothes finally arrive, he wears them to school that day and gets a ton of compliments. Not only do other people love his clothes, but more importantly he does.

Troy Grogan

Rômulo Nethaneel has always been a styleless man. His grandchild, on the other hand, is the total opposite, since he is constantly dripped out. Rômulo started working at the neighborhood Foot locker because of his necessities and because his grandson wants him to work there for free shoes.

Foot Locker

The local footlocker did not solve his needs, however, as Rômulo just found himself in a foot locker jersey with his coworkers having better kicks than him. This made Rômulo very sad.

Foot Locker

Rômulo was devastated until one of his coworkers had introduced him to an app called Fashion Finder, which is a shopping/social media/ augmented reality app for everything having to do with clothes.

Whenever Rômulo downloaded Fashion Finder, it blew his mind. He loves the augmented reality aspect of the app, which makes it feel like the piece of clothing is really right in front of him.

Romulo loves the fact on how Fashion Finder has a social media aspect to it. He uses it very often in order to know what clothes to buy and wear.

Ever since Rômulo has signed up for Fashion Finder, he now shops and walks around downtown Columbia with confidence.